AUTHENTICITY STANDARDS - WWI to MODERN DAY

Rev. N (09.19.2015)

The Authenticity Committee is made up of the B. O. D. with input from several other knowledgeable members on a case by case basis. The following standards have been devised for the unit to abide by. The standards are active, which means that they will be periodically revised to better enhance the BROLHO in ALL periods of reenacting.

Authenticity is defined as being genuine or real. This implies not only having authentic equipment, but also looking and acting the part. We need to know how to understand formations, manual of arms, proper treatment of officers (saluting and speaking respectfully, and obeying commands), in the spirit of the soldiers of the time period being portrayed.

Our organization portrays a variety of units that were/ are part of the 1st Infantry Division during all periods of the 1st Division's existence. However, we still need some sort of guidelines for our unit members to use when putting together an impression. As long as you are a member, you are to abide by these standards. When diversifying a display, check with the Authenticity Committee to make sure your display falls within our goals as a unit. This will be an Authenticity Committee group decision/vote, not a one-person approval.

While some of the information below may come across as harsh, please keep in mind that this is NOT a "cheap" hobby. In fairness to members who spend $1000's of dollars for their impression we do not want to ruin it with obvious post war Farby (historically incorrect items) items!!

Further, as a member of BROLHO, we expect you to present yourself in a soldierly fashion. This means buttons buttoned, shirts tucked in, correct uniform for the time period or event you are attending being worn correctly.

We are starting this section off with information on WWII, other periods will be added as time and information allows.

We use the following 2 volume book set for WWII by Henri-Paul Enjames as reference for what is correct and NOT correct. BROLHO owns both books and tries to have them available at major events.

GI Collector's Guide: Army Service Forces Catalog, U.S. Army European Theater of Operations

GI Collector's Guide, Vol. 2: U.S. Army European Theater of Operations

WWII:

General Note: Original equipment, approved reproductions, approved post war dated, and approved foreign items can be used. If the items are for display, where you can see the dates, then only original WWII dated or approved reproductions are acceptable. An example would be having a post war dated canteen in the cover as opposed to the outside of the cover where the date can be seen.

During your first year of membership (Probationary year) 10 Foot Rule: This is a general rule we plan to use whereas if a new member looks good from 10 feet away, then they're OK with their impression. Experienced members (Sgt. At Arms, PIO and other long time members) will help you fine tune your impression. Feel free to contact any of them PRIOR to obtaining ANY part of your impression to get the benefit of their experience (Firearms included).

FM 21-100 Soldiers Handbook, July 23, 1941: (required) this is the standard handbook issued by the army describing everything from army ranks to first aid. WWII dated books are readily available.

Personal Appearance

Haircut: Is to be short in neck area and sides so that it does not touch the ears. Top may be longer, but not long enough to cover the eyes.

Facial Hair:

1. It is preferred to be clean shaven
2. Mustaches: must not protrude past the corners of the mouth
3. A few days growth (front line scruff) is permissible at certain events such as a tactical or living history displays. Use proper judgment for this appearance because it can get out of hand quickly.
4. No beards, goatees, or long side burns unless for medical reasons, which you should notify members of the Authenticity Committee if you have such a condition.

Body piercing's: All visible body piercing's of any kind must be removed or hidden.

Tattoos: Period tattoos on arms and chests are ok, but should only be uncovered when a shirt is removed. Non period tattoos need to be covered at all times.

The use of uniforms within BROLHO will be as follows:

If an event has not indicated a specific time period, then we will reference the month and year, either 1944 or 1945 as applicable.

Basic Impression; Early war November, 1942 through May, 1944

All web gear should be khaki color for early war impression. Entrenching tools are strongly encouraged.

Basic Impression; Mid War From D-Day, June, 1944 through August-September, 1944. Note:

After D-Day, the GI sometimes began to “mix and match” their wool uniforms with HBTs (wearing HBT trousers with a wool shirt or an HBT shirt with wool trousers, etc.) in combat. M-1943 folding entrenching tool was issued to some of the troops for D-Day, so these may now be used. Also the new dark green web gear was just starting to be issued. The troops were still wearing predominately khaki web gear, but specific items such as a shovel cover or canteen cover could be dark green. Entrenching tools strongly encouraged.

Basic Impression: Late War August-September, 1944 through December, 1944. Note:

By this period of the war, the new M-1943 field uniforms and gear were being issued to the troops on the line in greater and greater numbers. The new M-1943 field jacket, the M-1943 cotton and wool (dark brown instead of mustard colored) field trousers and the new M-1943 combat (double buckle) boots were beginning to be issued and were being worn right alongside the old style uniforms. The dark green web gear was also becoming more common, as were the M-1943 folding shovels. Also many GI's were dropping the M-1928 haversacks (infantry packs) in favor of wearing the M-1936 combat suspenders with the M-1936 canvas field bag (musette bag). Entrenching tools strongly encouraged.

Basic Impression: Very Late War December 44 or January 45 through May, 1945. Note:

During this period of the war, the M-1944 helmet nets with the green elastic band were beginning to be issued. The M-1943 cotton field trousers and the dark brown wool trousers were much more common. The M-1943 field jackets were now more common than the earlier pattern “41” field jackets. Dark green colored web gear was more common as well. The dark green M-1944 and M-1945 packs were being issued, and the M-1943 double buckle boots were much more common than the “rough outs” with leggings. Entrenching tools strongly encouraged.

Basic Uniform Requirement - This should be the FIRST Uniform you obtain to participate with BROLHO!

1. Wool Garrison (Overseas) Cap with proper piping or no piping, see below.
2. M1937 Enlisted Men's OD Trousers
3. M1937 Enlisted Men's Flannel OD Shirt
4. Enlisted Men's Web Belt, M1937
5. Service Boots: see below.
6. Leggings, M1938 when wearing ankle boots, or Jump Boots.
7. Under shirts: Undershirt, Cotton, Summer, Sleeveless (Tank top style), Olive Drab, or Under, Winter, Wool, in White or Olive Drab.

NOTE: During WWII "T" shirts as we know them did not exist for U.S. Army use. They were made differently, and were NOT issued to the U.S. Army as far as we know! The USMC did use them along with the US Navy. IF you MUST wear a "T" shirt: They were tight fitting and the sleeves rode up your arm, they were short. They did not have the thick neckband like modern t-shirts. The neck opening was much larger. The material was much thinner. Remember, clothes during the 40's were form fitting! That was the fashion even with civilian clothing. The closest thing that we have seen to a 1940's style crew neck is the Haines Her Way. It needs to be Olive Drab, WWII color, NOT the modern Brown/Green that the current US Army wears!!!

Vehicles

No post war vehicles without EXTENSIVE modification to make them look like the WWII vehicle they are mimicking! This means NO CJ2A's painted green, unless the grill, windshield and hood have been changed, along with the tailgate being removed and the fuel fill being hidden or changed. This is just a short list for the jeep, there are probably more things to do, so save yourself some aggravation and buy the correct jeep to start with, or buy a reproduction CJ/MB body tub. The same can be said for the post war Bantam trailer, it is NOT acceptable without extensive modifications. The post war Dodge M37 CAN NOT BE MODIFIED ENOUGH TO PASS! Also not acceptable are the "Fat Man" MB /GPW body tubs!

Tentage

We are striving to switch to ONLY using period correct canvas. This means no GP Small, GP Mediums, M1945 command post tents (issued too late to see use in the ETO from our research) etc!

Women in BROLHO:

For the most part, the females in this unit are wives or girlfriends of men involved with the Infantry or armored infantry aspect of WWII. Single women will not be turned away, but there are reenacting groups that are far BETTER geared for the female WWII reenactor.

BROLHO is a cross representation of the 1ST Infantry Division, a men's ONLY club during the First and Second World Wars.

Women in WWII Reenacting, a brief note: When participating in static or living history events, women are to be portrayed as they were assigned in WWII. Women can observe a tactical as a war correspondent. See the Authenticity Committee members for ideas, suggestions, and/or approval for ways of reenacting. Nurse's Corp and WAC information is listed further below.

Impressions will need to be generic. I.E: Nursing, Communications, Mechanics, WARCO (with or without cameras), etc. If it's mentioned in the officers handbook, it's allowable.

Civilian period clothing is allowable. Other Allied female War personnel are allowable. Think generic.

Women were a BIG part of the War effort.

Having said that, Service Women at this time were, not common place in combat situations, in the European Theater. It does not mean it didn't happen, but it was far from the norm, and the powers that be did their best to keep it that way. BROLHO Will not be encouraging it either. There will be NO women in combat and NO women under arms in this unit.

The wearing of the divisional patch by women members is discouraged, as it is NOT historically accurate for WWII.

Expectations from your Board of Directors:

This is a fully functioning unit. BROLOHO is very much a part of the command structure at some larger events. You will be assigned duties for said events and will be expected to fulfill those duties.

A display (quality, not size) will be expected to accompany your choice of impression(s), not to mention a good grasp knowledge pertaining the said impression.

Joining this unit for the sole purpose of attending invitation only events will be discouraged. Joining this unit for party only purposes will be not be tolerated.

Visible Tattoos and or Rainbow hair are NOT ALLOWED for any impression prior to Gulf War Two.

Present impressions will be subject to current military tolerance. Tattoos will be covered if present for historic displays.

Class A uniforms, Class B uniforms, HBTs, Civilian period clothing are all acceptable forms of dress. Female members of the unit will be expected to maintain the dress decorum of the 1940s at WWII events. Women did NOT wear their undergarments in public. The men in this unit are expected to remain IN uniform during public hours. The same is expected of the female members of BROLHO. It has been suggested that uniform requirements begin with HBTs.

First time event ladies may wish to do a simple, civilian period dress as opposed to sinking a lot of money into uniforms.

Dress for events prior to or after WWII will be determined by the unit PIO and or the B.O.D. for said event.

Korean War info has been sketchy.

By Vietnam, women were wearing their own Big Red Ones.

Female Impressions WWII: Women's Army Corp (WAC) and Army Nurse's Corp (ANC)

Basic Uniform Requirement

1. HBT shirt, thirteen star buttons
2. HBT pants with adjustable button closure on each side of the waistband, 13 star buttons
3. Field boots with or without leggings
4. Wool knit cap, Daisy May Hat, or M1 Helmet without a net.

All other items are the same except anything that's weapon related.
